A minimum six years of progressively responsible, professional level experience in Reproductive Health and Family Planning (RH and FP) at the policy and field implementation level is required. The experience should involve planning, managing, monitoring, or advising RH and FP programs or general health programs with RH and FP being a significant component.

Duties:

The Project Management Specialist (Reproductive Health and Family Planning Advisor) position is located in the Health Office (HO) of USAID/India and the incumbent works under the supervision of the Development Assistance Specialist (RMNCH+A Division Chief). The incumbent serves as a Project Management Specialist (PMS) and the principal Reproductive Health and Family Planning (RH and FP) Advisor for the HO's overall goal of improving the health of vulnerable populations in India.

Broadly, the incumbent's responsibilities will include:

The incumbent functions with high degree of independence and latitude with respect to policies, programs and issues related to his/her area of expertise in RH and FP. The incumbent is a recognized expert in the field, performing a full range of consultative, analytical, advisory, program management, monitoring and evaluative functions.

Technical Assistance (TA) to USAID-supported Activities:

The incumbent will work in collaboration with other staff members of the Health Office and the senior leadership team to provide TA for USAID/India RH and FP activities through the public and private sector. In this role, the incumbent will be required to provide the following assistance:

- Design innovative activities and promote state-of-the-art technical approaches to address issues related to RH and FP in the public and private sector;
- Assist USAID and its partners in developing and implementing sound policies and programs in line with the Government of India (GOI) and USAID priorities and policies;
- Analyze and compare options on the basis of global best practices in RH and FP, United States Government (USG) objectives, resource availability, and cost effectiveness;
- Provide technical leadership and assistance to the projects in developing mechanisms to link with GOI health institutions responsible for RH and FP services, as well as with facilities established by the private sector and civil society;
- Provide expert advice to the GOI and relevant state governments for improving access and quality of RH and FP services through participation in meetings, review of documents, participation in program reviews and other forms of technical assistance;
- Provide recommendations on the design of new research and innovations in the context of RH and FP;
- Conduct and lead advocacy with key stakeholders for expanding contraceptive choices in the country;
- Review and support capacity-building activities of USAID's partners;
- Assist in improving the quality of FP and RH curricula and training materials, in accord with the national guidelines and international standards;
- Assist in development and implementation of quality assurance mechanisms for improving the quality of RH and FP services.

S/he will provide technical expertise for the development, implementation and evaluation of program-related materials such as training manuals, curricula, and clinical service guidelines/standards.

The incumbent will provide assistance and oversight to ensure that all family planning programs implemented or funded by USAID adhere to applicable U.S. legislation, policies and regulations, including but not limited to the Mexico City Policy, the Tiahrt Amendment and the USAID guidance on use of health funding. The incumbent will maintain systems for gathering and storing relevant information related to these topics (hard and soft copies), and will analyze, interpret and report on their significance and relevance to the USAID portfolio.

Coordination and Representation:

Represent USAID in technical meetings on RH and FP issues and liaise with other USG agencies, development partners, academicians, Indian and international technical experts and officials on relevant technical matters; facilitate collaborative decision-making and program implementation with senior GOI officials at the national and state levels; participate in coordination of field visits to activity sites for monitoring activities and, in collaboration with Mission Communication staff, assisting high-level visitors.

Evidence-based Planning:

Analyze and interpret epidemiological and other quantitative and qualitative data to provide guidance on the replication of best practices in RH and FP; keep abreast of the latest developments, publications, research studies and other information generation activities on RH and FP being undertaken both in India and globally to assist in sound planning; write, review and/or edit the relevant technical components of program narratives (work plans, quarterly reports, and USAID-specific reporting documents) to ensure progress toward targets, cost effectiveness, compliance with USAID and USG guidelines and regulations, and technical soundness.

Language:

Fluency in English and Hindi is required. Fluency in English should be at Level IV for speaking, reading and writing.

Knowledge:

The incumbent must have thorough understanding of global and national best practices in RH and FP, as well as of the GOI's national priorities, and in-depth knowledge and understanding of related issues in India.

Skills and Abilities:

The incumbent should possess the ability to 1) plan strategies with partners and provide high quality technical assistance in RH and FP; 2) organize, analyze, interpret and utilize epidemiological studies, program performance reports, and other available quantitative and qualitative data; 3) work in a participatory and consensus-oriented matrix management organogram, utilizing a team approach which requires strong interpersonal skills; 4) handle sensitive issues diplomatically, and 5) inspire confidence in GOI and other counterparts; 6) write reports and other documents of substantial length and complexity with minimal errors; 7) utilize basic computer programs effectively, including Word, Excel, Power Point and Outlook.
